a follows:

13. "Land slienated from the Crown in fee prior to the day on which this Act shall come into operation (whether such land ahall constitute the whole or only part of the land included in any grant) may be brought under the provisions of this Act in the following manner that is to say The Registrar General shall receive applications in form A of the Schedule hereto if made by any of the following persons:

"By any person claiming to be the person in whom the fee simple is vested in possession either at law or in equity. Provided that wherever trusions assland in fee simple have no express power to sell the land which they may seek to bring under the operation of this Act, the person claiming to be beneficially entitled for the first life cetate or other greater cetate that a life estate in the sail land shall join in such application.

"By any nervon claiming a life agtate in possession.

ortitle for the first life criats or other greater estate that a life estate in the said land shall join in such application.

"By any person claiming a life estate in possession or a lesseshold for a life or lives or having a term of not less than twenty. Five years then current. Provided that except in the case of an application by a lessee as regards the concurrence of his lessor all persons claiming to be beneficially entitled in reversion or remainder shall join in such application.

"Provided always that no such application shall be received from any persons claiming to be entitled to an undivided share of any land unless the person who shall appear to be entitled to the other undivided share of the said land shall join in such application with a view to bringing the entirety under the provisions of this Act, nor from the mortgagor of any land unless the mortgagor shall join in such application, and the such application, nor from the mortgagor of any land except in the exercise of a power of sale contained in the mortgago deed, nor for any land subject to the life of any judgment or execution creditor unless such creditor shall consent to such application, nor from a married woman unless her abustand shall join in such application. Provided also that the father or if the father be dead the mother or other guardian of any lination or person of unsend mind may make such application in the name of such linfant lunatio or person of unsend mind may make such application in the name of such linfant lunatio or person of unsend mind may make such application in the name of such linfant lunatio or person of unsend mind may make such application in the name of such linfant lunatio or person of unsound mind."

14. "Every such applicata shall when making his application deposit with the Registrar-General all instruments of his ceisate or interest, and of every estate or interest, and of every estate or interest, and shall furnish a schedule of such instruments of this ceisate or interest, and of every estate or inter as is authorised to require the production of the certificate of a sworn valuer.

6. In cases of trast, the Act provides that the trustoes or the party transferring the property to be held in trust may, at the time of making the application, or subsequently, equire the words "no survivorship" to be outered on the serificate of title; the effect of which will be, that, in the svent of the death, resignation, or incapacity of any trustee, the remaining trustees cannot, without the express sanction of the Supreme Court, dispose of, or deal with the property mail the original number of trustees is made up in manuer prescribed in the 67th section. Further precontions against ovacaches of trust may also be taken by the ledging of a careat as provided by section 81.

7. When the land mentioned in the application consists of an entire section or allotment as delineated in an original and grant, a diagram must be furnished him from the survey office at the cost of the applicant; and in cases there diagrams cannot be obtained from that office, a map if the section or allotment must be furnished on a scale not see than that prescribed in the 101st section, by a surveyor pecially licensed by the Surveyor-General for the purposes of the Act (see sec. 100) who must verify its accuracy by toolaration before the Registrar-General or a Justice of the Pence.

8. When the application is in respect of part only of an

of the Act (see sec. 100) who must verify its accuracy by declaration before the Registrar-General or a Justice of the Peace.

8. When the application is in respect of part only of an original Government section, a plan must be furnished by a murreyor as sforeasid, and declared to in like manner. This rule may be relaxed when it is shown that the deeds surrendered, or a map already deposited contain an accurate description of the land.

9. Every map or plan must show the space intervening between some fixed point and the point at which the land reserved to in the application commences.

10. Whenever money has been advanced in contemplation of a mortgage to be executed so soon as the land is moder the operation of the Act, the circumstances should be stated in the spilication; in which case the deeds deposited by the applicant will be held as an equitable security for the intending mortgagee, to whom they will be delivered in the event of the title being rejected by the Land Titles Commissioners; and if the title be approved, the certificate of title will be retained in the office until the mortgage is registered and entered thereon.

11. The consent of parties, when required, must be signified by the Negletrar-General or his Deputy, or by a solicitor or justice of the peace.

12. The applicant may, at the time of making application, or at any time prior to the date appointed by the Land Titles Commissioners for the land to be brought under the Act, by writing under his hand, attested by a witness, direct the Registrar General to issue the certificate of title in the name of a purchaser or where person to whom he may desire to transfer the land.

13. Any remainderman or reversioner who concurs in the application of a tenant for life or years, may procure himself spile to the same of a purchaser or where person to whom he may desire to transfer the land.

desire to transfer the land.

13. Any remainderman or reversioner who concurs in the application of a tenant for life or years, may procure himself to be registered as such reversioner or remainderman, according to the nature of his cetate or interest, on payment of a separate fee of 10s.

14. It will be seen by section 14, that in addition to the disposit of all deeds in the applicant's countrol affecting the fittle an abstract is to be furnished, if required. Any shettacts in the applicant's possession should accompany the deeds. In other cases the requirement will depend appen circumstances.

the deeds. In other cases the requirement will depend appen circumstances.

15. When the title consists of a land grant only, the Commissioners' fee is 5s. Detailed prospectuaes, with tables of rates, forms of pro-posals, &c., can be obtained free on application at the Read Office, or any of the agencies. WILLIAM BAR, Manager.

This company is projected for the purpose of purchasing the freehold coal mines belonging to Mesers James and Alexander Brown, of Newcoasila, with whom a proliminary agreement has been effected.

These extensive and invaluable coalfields, known as the Minmi Celliery, and situated in the vicinity of Newcoasia, New South Wales, comprise as area of Freshold property, in which are found the richast and most abundant coal deposits known in Australia.

The seam of the colliery at present being worked is identical with the Newcoasis Wallsend Company's on adjoining lead, and consists of a stratum of coal of the uniform thickness of about eight feat, which alone is estimated to yield upwards of 22,000,000 tons of seams, one of which is also of eight feet, and another of five feet thickness; both these are known to extend over nearly the whole of the estate. A6, however, it is compation on hundred and forty-six (146) years would be required to an hundred sing free seam; supposing the deliveries to be farceased, and made at the rate of 3000 (three thousand) tone per week, it is needless to regard them as present.

The quality of the produce of this coal manure, according to the recently received report of the Lords of the Admiralty, is described "for naval purposes as a good coal about equal to the average of North Country English coals."

The colliery is connected with Newcastle and the River Hunter by railway. First, the Minmi and Hexham itself-way, between aix and seven miles long, constructed by the April of the seven and the rate of the colliery with the River Hunter at alway connects the colliery with the River Hunter at alway connects the colliery with the River Hunter at always connects and the rate of the colliery with the River Hunter at the synthesis, steam-engines, station, and river frontage, altogether comprising 10 acres, three shipping station, and one-fring manuerial privileges and concessions, which and over meeting in the colliery with the River Hunter at the profits of the steam-tup provided and over p cipation of fully 20 per cent. dividend on the whole capital. (The total quantity of coal shipped from Nowcastle during the eight months ending 31st August, 1862, was 246, 201 tons.)

The present proprietors, feeling assured that the chief seat of Australian trade and enterprise is centred in Melbourns, consider that by associating with a Victorian proprietary their interests will be greatly enhanced, and that a considerably increased demand for the produce of the mine will thus be accured. They have therefore agreed to dispose of this property to the company at the price of £150,000, but stipulating, however, that one-half of the payment shall be usede in the shares of the company, reckoned fully paid up, and agreeing that a portion of the remainder, via, £45,000, may remain on credit for two and seven years from the last February pext. at an average interest of 6; per cent. per annum; the balance, £30,000, to be paid in each by convenient instalments.

In order that no possible disadvantage may arise by the transfer to the company, and also to duly induct the managers to be appointed by the directors. Mesern. James and Alexander Brown have consented to continue supervision at the mines and at Newcastle for the benefit of the company, free of charge, for a period of six months from the last february next.

The property will be delivered over to the company on the last day of February next, free of all liabilities, with a transfer of all existing contracts for forward delivery, and thus an extensive business will be commenced, without the slightest interruption.

As by the terms of the contract so large a portion of the purchase money will be represented and liquidated by the payment of 7500 shares, there remain only 7500 shares available for allotment to the public. It is not intended to call up more than £5 per share, as ag £3 seven days after notification of allotment, and the remainder at intervals of three and six months after allotment. £45,000 of the purchase mency not being required until 1865 and 1860, no shareholder shall have a greater number of votes than forty.

For detailed information, the Secretary pro tem. will be glad to furnish the fullest particulars at the offices of the company, where plans of the property, together with the workings (authenticated by the Government Geologist and Mining Surveyor of New South Weleo) may be examined, and the Deed of Settlement perused.

Pandly Pill is a medicine of long-tried effinery for prifying the blood, so very essential for the foundation of good health, and correcting all disorders of the stoms ch and bowels. Two or three doses will convince the afflicted of its salutary effects. The stomech will speedily ragain its strength; a healthy action of the liver, bowels, and kidneys will rapidly take place; and renewed health will be the quick result of taking this medicine, according to the directions accompanying each box.

Persons of a full habit, who are subject to headacha, giddiness, drowsiness, and singing in the ears, arising from too great a flow of blood to the head, should never be without them, as many dangerous symptoms will be eatirely carried off by their timely use.

For famales, these pills are truly excellent, removing all obstructions, the distressing headsche so very prevalent with the sex, depression of spirits, dulness of sight, nervous affections, blotches, pimples, and sallowness of the skin, and give healthy, juvenile bloom to the complexion.

To mothers they are confidently recommended as the best medicine that can be taken; and for children of all ages they are unequalled.

These pills unite the recommendation of a mild operation with the most successful effect; and for elderly people, or where an occasional aperient is required, nothing oan be better adapted.

Hor Majesty's Commissioners have authorised the name and address of "Thomas Prout, No. 229, Strand, London," to be impressed upon the Government stamps affined to sech box of the genuine medicine.

ACCORDING to placeded notice, a public meeting was convened at Mr. S. Everett's, Crown Hotel, for the purpose of presenting Mr. James Buchanan with an address of sympathy and congratulation on the termination of the proceedution. There having assembled between seventy and eighty persons, the business of the meeting was opened by Mr. John Anderson proposing, and Mr. James Dobarty seconding, that Mr. Alexander M'Leod do take the chair. (Applanse.)

A rote of thanks was then carried by acclamation, for the able manner in which Mr. M Lood had fulfilled the duties of the chair.

Application was then made to append additional signatures to the address; the deputation, however, declined to accept them, the proceedings of the meeting having concluded. The address was signed by the chairman on behalf of the meeting, when the business terminated.

Accident and Lucky Escape.—On Wednesday last, an accident of rather a singular character occurred on No. 16 claim, North Union. It appears that four men were below driving, and that they drove into an old shaft in which there were several feet of water. The water immediately rushed through the aperture in towents, driving the men to the foot of their own shaft, where they all seized the rope and should with all their might to their comrades aloft to raise them from their perilous situation. But to lift four men was beyond the power of the two men at the windlass; and therefore the two weakest had to give way. The other men were hoisted as quickly as possible—one of them having a firm hold of the rope with both his hands and legs, while the second held on at the bottom having a firm hold of the rope with both his hands and legs, while the second held on at the bottom having a firm for the latter, from falling strength, was obliged to let go his held when almost drawn to the surface, and fell to the bottom, a depth of 104 feet. Luckily for his, however, but most unluckily for one of the men writing at the bottom for their turn (a Frenchmus), the falling man dropped right on his shoulders, and severely bruised him, but escaped himself comparatively unseathed.—Lachlon Observer.

This was in the first place modified by an annual "Squatting Licence," issued by the Sydney Government.

In 1848 this tenure was improved by the issue of the Orders of the Queen in Council, which gave to the pastoral occupants the right to demand a lease of fourteen years with right to renew on certain conditions, until the land was actually required. In 1850 when Victoria obtained separate government, the management of the land was handed over to the coloniats by the Imperial Government, with the Orders in Council as the title and security of the squatters. Their position was then this: the value of the sheep and cattle with stations amounted to about six millions sterling. This represented—lst. The value given to the land by the Government opening up the country and giving protection; 2nd. The money expended by the squatters in taking up the country and making improvements—at a very low estimate, a million and a half sterling; and third, the accumulated profit upon this annually invested up to 1850 (that is ten years from 1839 as a fair average between 1835 and 1843 during which the country was taken up). That this value represented money and profit invested by the squatters, can be proved by reference to the papers of the day for the following facts:—First, that sheep from their istroduction by Macarthur in 1850, increased at the rate of early fifteen per cent, per annum over the colony; second, that during its pastoral existence the exports and imports steadily balanced each other, showing that the suggregate pastoral existence the exports and imports steadily balanced each other, showing that the suggregate pastoral existence the exports and imports steadily balanced each other, showing that the outlay, interest, and rik of taking up new country smounted to the difference; in the same way an actual outlay of at least three million stering by the equatters, besides accumulated profit during the next ten years, will be required upon our plains unless they are to remain a desert as Port Phillip was in '35.

unless they are to remain a desert as Port Philip was in '35.

From the moment manbood suffrage was obtsined, sill right to compensation even for actual buildings was denied, and in a short time the Orders in Council were repudiated and ignored. When the gold discovery caused an influx of population so much greater than had been anticipated, a modification of these became expedient, but a total repudiation was as unjust as it was impolitic. Any Government acting with the most ordinary common sense and prudence would have cleared the way for population with as little damage as possible to a great interest like the pastoral. Instead of that they ignored its existence as a valuable interest, and committed or never checked actual destruction, wanton because quite unnecessary. In no country, not even France or England, is obe acre per head of cultivation required, and the most ample scope for selection might have been given to the boson fide agriculturist, without material damage to the pastoral interest, and the sites of buildings and improvements necessary to carry on their business, could have been secured them (as a matter of public poley to a great public interest) without a little of detriment to individual or public. All was thrown open, however, with one solitany restriction, that a man could select not more than 640 acres, thereby leaving the squatter open to extortion upon every 40 acre block of his ran except one square mile; and wherever its position rendered the block necessary towards depasturing others the opportunity was eagerly selzed upon. All property in improvements, even dams and artificial watercholes, was disregarded and treated as if they did not exist, except is a means of extortion, in which the Government, instead of protecting the squatter, zealously competed with the private landshark. As one instance among many: a friend of my own expended 500 upon a sheepwash and reservoir, and when the land was put up for each the upon the capation of the control of the control of the control of the c mation that the man was an ass, ordered the bastinado. Duffy's Act takes the very flesh and bones as well.

The grand result is, that a very large number of the old squatters are utterly ruined, and what is of more interest to the community, the great body of them are crushed with debt incurred either in purchasing land they did not want, or buying off entortioners; and now by such reat Government takes away the means of psying interest upon the debt; the Government are, in fact, drawing into the Treasury as income the working capital of the sheep owners, and entailing upon the commonwealth interest in the pastoral property a direct loss of greater smoutar annually than all the price they get for the land. There is a promise of lease of fourteen years for new runs, but with most restricted compensation for improvements, and this clause is a finale. Clause 121, "No occupier of land for pastoral purposes shall be entitled to compensation by reason of this Act being hereafter repealed or altered." The Act itself is so bad, and applied in a spirit of such reckless mischief to the commonwealth as well as to individuals, that annexation to Victoria would be perfect folly. If, as they allege, the spirit of the people towards the pastoral interest is so changed that we should so trust them, where is the proof of it. Why is this Act persevered in at the expense of so much vain and misery, when it is universally acknowledged, except by Mr. Duffy himself, to be a total failure. The Act has been applied to four of the ten millions of acres, and in a few weeks the rain will be continued on the remaining six millions, and for

COITON CULTIVATION.

As we have before remarked (says the Froman), there are very few localities in this colony where the cotton plant can be successfully cultivated. The neighbouring colony of South Australia, however, we have every reason to believe, will be found suitable for its growth. The climate of South Australia being considerably warmer than that of Victoria, there can be no doubt about the seeds attaining maturity, which according to the experiments made here by Dr. Mueller, cannot be hoped for in our climate, except in south-east Gipps Land, and, perhaps, in some localities on the Upper Murray.

In the South Australian Farm and Garden we find the following account of what has been done to introduce the cultivation of cotton into that colony:—

"The rapid increase of pauperism and distress in the mother country, consequent upon the failure of the cotton supply from the Southern States of America, rendered it not only a question of profit but of humanity to find supplies of the raw material for the mills of Manchester. We do not, however, intend typers the subject as an eleemosynary one, as the kind of assistance we could render in the way suggested would in all probability come too late, but as a matter affecting the interests of our farmers we would call attention once more to the importance of cotton cultivation in the colony. A great deal of seed has already been distributed in small parcels throughout the signicultural districts, and we hope to hear, in due course, the results of the experiments that have been made. We hepe that they will be such as to justify operations on a larger scale. The adventage of the cultivation of cotton over a heat is, that an unlimited market for the former exists in England at remunerative prices.

"We are sanguine as to the success of any well-ordered attempt to cultivate the Sea Island variety of cotton. Our extensive seabo persons to procure similar machines. The seed to be ferwarded will consist of one cwt. of Egyptian, lewt. of American Upland in the cottod, 1 cwt. of the same without cottom, 1 cwt. of the same without cottom, 1 cwt. of Sea Island. The committee of the association have been led to suppose that a great deal of seed is rendened useless by the action of the knife in ginning, and they send the upland variety ginned and ungianed, in the hope that the two will be sown at the same time, and the results obtained from each care fully noted for their information. We believe it is the wish of Messas. Skelton and Co. that the seed expected out should be planted in quantity in the most approved situations, rather than that it should be distributed in smaller portions over a larger area of country. They think that the best test will be afforded of the suitability of our soil and climate for the cultivation of cotton by the experiments being conducted upon a larger scale. It might be well if the committee of the Agricultural Society would take the matter up, and assist Messas. Skelton and Co. with their advice as to the most princhent distribution of this seed. Probably the results of the small experiments now being made with the seed already distributed will indicate the localities best suited for the planting of the seed sent to Messas. Skelton and Co.

"From a perusal of the society's publications, we are strongly led to believe that the climate of this colony will be found to be very favourable to the cultivation of the cotton plant. An erronacous impression, to the effect that a great deal of moistare was required in cotton-growing, has obtained extensive circulation. In opposition to this, it is now affirmed that wet years are generally bad-crop years. The excessive moisture either produces a tendency in the plant to become weedy, or calls forth the small brown caterpillar moth which destroys the recently planted octton. The cotton grower, it seems, wants, in the first instance, just sufficient rain to soften the land f

CHOLERA IN THE DISTRICT OF ALBURY.—We have heard of a few cases during the past week of English cholers occurring in the district. At Corowa one case terminated faisly, and we hear there were two others in Wabgunyah. There have also been two or three cases in Albury, but we are glad to say that none have resulted in death. In Wabgunyah they very possibly may have arisen from bad water, and here from eating unrips fruit, both, it is well known, being strong incentives to this dreadful scourge.—Banner, of Saturday.

Sir.—The evidence which appeared in your journal is identical with that taken by the Board. In your least it appears in the affirmative form; by the Board it is recorded as question and answer, but, of course, the import is the same. I have authority for asserting this, that though some verbal errors crept into the printed evidence none of them select the general issue.

Having commented upon that evidence, and having etablished to the conviction of the people of this city—including almost every nautical man in it—that the Board has decided wrongly, I am not inclined to enter into a quarrel with Mr. Fox. So far as Mr. Blix is concerned has decided wrongly, I am not inclined to enter into a quarrel with Mr. Fox. So far as Mr. Blix is concerned his defence in complete. The decision of the Board will descend to the least honourable uses of worthless documents. Having taken pains to ascertain, I defy contradiction that the opinion of the hautical profession is decidedly in opposition to the Board. In propertion to the extent of experience and distinction in service that opinion has been expressed with stronger confidence and greater indignation.

All through there have been attempts to set up false issues—to prove what, proven, would not inculpate. From Board have any recent or extended experience, they rashly condemned the Kemble! But what is to be said of mon who sequit the Hunter—who find nothing on board that vessel but what is enderly and correct—whe see no duttes neglected, no wrong perpetrated? Will the public, looking over that evidence and all the facts there stated by the Hunter's own witnesses, come to that conclusion? I assert that the Beard has raised a false issues—has gut the decision of the quasilon upon facts which have no legal relevance, and that has obtained for him to quarters whose approval will not only clear him of represelt have no legal relevance, and that has obeing seed the influmy of the Board's decision upon must calculate an aberration of the compass of twentytwo degrees; and when this fact was asserted before the Board it was met by Mr. Smith and Mr. Darley with ineredulous laughter; by Mr. For with doubtful curiosity, and I am prepared to say that within the last week the fact itself has been disputed again by a member of the Board,

When it is censistered that the question of "the course" must have been affected by the avidence as given from the compasses of a wooden and of an iron vessel, and when it was said that by a few hourvessel, and when it was said that by a few hourvessel, and when it was said that by a few hourvessel, and when it was said that by a few hourvessel, and when it was said that by a few hourvessel, and when it was said that by a few hourvessel, and when it was said that by a few hourvessel, and when it was said that by a few hourvessel, and when it was said that by a few hourvessel, and when it was said that by a few hourvessel, and the said that by a few hourvessel, and the said that the said that prevent a said faction not to call evidence which would have established the fact of which they were profoundly ignorant. It is well known that none of the gentlemen of the Board have had a mutical education adapted to the navigation of tron steam-vessels.
I have no wish to detract from the personal or literary merits of any of them, but I believe I shall be borne out in saying that there is not one member of the Board that could plass a first-class examination for waster in London, and that there the diction of the Board would go for mothing.
What may be its authority here I leave the captains in harbour to say.

The Board is now upon its defence into Mr. Bitx; and the temper in which that defence will be made may be inferred from the letter of Mr. Fox. A grievous wrong has been perpetrated, both in form and in abstance, and that wrong has called out the indignation of the people.
They look on with scorn, when men not only injure by their false verdict a man who deserve

To the Editor of the Herald.

Sin,—In your issue of to-day appears a letter from Captain Fox, one of the Board that sat upon the collision of the Kembla and the Hunter. If this gentleman wants to justify himself before the public relative to the decision given by the Board in that case, why not, as a member of that Board, urge upon the Government the propriety of publishing the report in full, and the reasons for coming to the conclusion that the Kembla was wrong? We shall then have the account that has been made public by your paper, and the interpretation by the Board of the clause relative to the collision between the two vessels. Let this gentleman (who is well known to many of us as an active and shifted man in his profusion, when following it some years pest), do this and he will confer a boon upon many of the master mariners out of the port, for certainly most of the nautical men I have conversed with upon the subject hold that both the evidence taken and the interpretation of the Act go agrisust their decision, and therefore, at present we are now left to halt between two opinions. If I peas the way the Kambla was going to do, I am right, in my own opinion of what the law says we are to do in these cases. But I am wrong by the judges that are to judge by the law, and I do think that it is incumbent upon the gentlemes who formad the Board to urge upon the Government the necessity of this step, as it may be of service to many of us.

GREENWICH SCHOOL. GREENWICH SCHOOL.

To the Editor of the Herald.

Sin.—Having, with a great many brother seamen, been waiting patiently for the bill lately before Parliament to pass into law, to raise us a little nearer to an equality with working men on shors, we saw, to our great ragnet, that after having passed the Assembly, the bill in going through the Council was quietly put on one side. Now as I suppose that either the same bill, or some similar one, will be introduced next seasion, and believing, as I do, that it is only from those persons who have the making of the laws being ignorant, or having no knowledge or experience of the way in which seamen, according to British law, are legislated for—much in the same way as if they were convicts, and placed much on a par to the United States Government legislating with regard to their alaves. In fact, as in America all near are equal except actions.

As it is not unlikely that the same bill, or another similar in its provisions, may be brought flowward next sension, prinape you could interest the public in our behalf before the Assembly meets again, as well as enlighten tham with regard to how sailors are treated, and suggest some amendments in future legislation for seamen.

Apologiaing for thus troubling you,

Sin,—In your issue of this day I find it reported under the head of Police, that "Patrick Jones," brought before the Bench of Magistrates in the Central Police Office (he having been found lying in the Police Court yard) ested that he had been turned out of the Infirmary, for what reason he did not know—and that an order for his admission to the Asylum was ferwarded yesterday and refused. I beg to state that the statements are not strictly correct.

Int. The man had not been in the Infirmary, but was discharged from Darlingburst gool on the 12th instant.

2nd. He was not refused admission to the Government Asylum, but the policeman who brought the recommendation at 2 p.m., was told by the Secretary, that if he brought the man up on the next board day—Friday, 16th instant,—the recommendation would be considered by the Board of Management.

Illusions.—On this interesting topic we find the following remarks in the British Quarterly Review. The writer says:—Illusions may arise either from disorder of the senses, or from an error of judgment upon data correctly derived from their evidence. Thus a person may see double, or see only the half of an object; or he may see that object distorted, or variously coloured, or modified in an infinity of ways — a most prolific source of ghost-seeing. This chiefly occurs under the influence of a predominant train of thought, an absorbing emotion, or an excited state of the imagination. One illustration will serve as the type of the whole; it is related by Dr. Ferriar in his "Theory of Apparitions":—"A gentleman was benighted, whilse travelling slone, in a remote part of the Highlands of Scotland, and was compelled to ask shelter for the evening at a smill lonely but. When he was to be conducted to his bedroom, the landlady observed, with mysterious reluctance, that he would find the window very insecurs. On examination, he found that part of the wall had been broken down to enlarge the opening. After some inquiry he was told that a pediar, who had lodged in the same ro on a short time before, had committed suicide, and was found hanging behind the door in the morning. According to the superstition of the country, it was deemed improper to remove the body by the door of the house, and to convey it through the window was impossible, without removing part of the wall. Some hints were dropped that the room had been subsequently haunted by the poor man's spirit. My friend laid his arms, properly prepared against intrusion of any kind, by his bedaide, and retired to rest not without some degree of apprehension. He was visited in a dream by a frightful apparition, and awaking in agony, found himself sitting up in bed, with spirit induced himself, he received the incollected image in his right hand. On casting a fea hesitate to accuse Victoria of dodging, and of manouvring to evade the Conference after having assented to its principle. The Government of Victoria may probably think it expedient to take offence at this insinuation, although appearances certainly go very far to justify it. If there had been a hearty readi-so, the difficulties could very easily have been got over. This month would have been very convenient in which to discuss the Tariff question. After the Conference was over, the three

Legislatures of Victoria, South Australia,

Commissioners into consideration, and before the end of the year New South Wales and Queensland could have done the same.

It might thus have been possible before the year losed to have secured some uniform action, or at least to have taken the initiatory steps towards doing so. But now, as Victoria refuses even to confer on the subject until its present session of Parliament is closed, it will be impossible for to take any legislative action till its next Parliament meets. In this way an indefinite and

The Conference might possibly have been held without Victoria, if Queensland had not unexpectedly called off. The reason assigned for this is, that ne powers had been given to plenipotentaries by any local Act of Parliament. But it is hardly necessary for this to be done, though it might be expedient. The Conference therefore, would have been the travelling ex-

The refusal of Victoria was independent of The resusal of Victoria was independent of that of Queensland, and was based professedly only on the inconvenience of the suggested date. Yet, in agreeing to meet at Melbeurne, the other colonies did all that could be done to accommodate Victoria, so far as the place of

And as to the date no time could have been named that on the whole was so generally convenient as the present month. Every Government wishes to have the Conference while its own Parliament is not in session, in order that one or more of its Cabinet Ministers may be present at it. But then all the Parliaments meet at different times, so that such an arrangement is not possible.

Victoria, however, is the only colony whose Parliament is in session; but that is enjoying the Christmas recess, and Ministers, therefore, have the leisure, if they had chosen to take advantage of it. They pretend, however, that they are so oppressed with the prospect of their coming labours that they cannot possibly spare the time to attend to anything else. We canno help thinking that there is a good deal of sham in all this. One of the Victorian Cabinet Ministers is at this time in this colony, on a cruise, and Mr. O'SHANASSY himself, so far from being deep in official papers and embryonic bills, is said to be on a trip to see his new station, the "Moira," which he has just bought. By the way, the fact of his hus become a New South quatter may, perhaps, make him imenable to official discipline. The Moira station is just across the frontier, and the rebellious John O'Shanassy, who will not be brought to terms, and who resists all the other colonies unitedly, is a subject of the Hon. CHARLES COWPER. Cannot Mr. COWPER manage this rival potentate, who yet owes him allegiance? Not in his usual way—he certainly cannot. Mr. Cowpen's ordinary mode of Rareyfying an obstreperous opponent is to offer him a comfortable billet. But Mr. O'SHANASSY is not to be tamed like a common

With the Land Act in his hand as an instrument of torture, he can bring the most obdurate squatter on to his knees. Suppose he tries the charm on Mr. O'SHANASSY. ALTERATIONS IN LIGHTS AT SHORTLAND'S BLUFF. ffrom the Government Gazette, January 8.7
This accompanying notice to mariners, respecting the new light at shortland's Bluff, is published for the information of navigator.

**Birk LIGHTHOUSE.**
Fixed Bright White Light.

The new high lighthouse will, like the present one, exhibit a fixed bright white light between sunset and sunrise, and be visible from seaward to vessels in the offing from about E, by N. to S., but vessels closs in with the Londaile lain will not see the light except come. N. by E, to N.

Light except come will be the same the same that the light except come will be to be a sunrise of the light will be one hendred and thirty of the same that the light come is built of bluestone, and will remain its natural colour. The centre of the light will be one hendred and thirty (120) feet above high-water level, and be visible at a distance of seventeen miles, allowing ten feet for the height of the eye, and at iesser distances according to the state of the atmosphere.

The attention of navigators is called to the fact of the new light being twenty feet higher than the present one, and of greater intensity; it will, therefore, show further seaward and into the Barwon light than the latter did.

Elsewon light than the latter did.

LOW LIGHT.
Fixed Red and White.
The new low lighthouse tower will be painted white, like the present one. The centre of the light will be ninety feet above high-water level. The white light will be visible at a distance of fourteen miles, and the red light at a distance of ten miles, and at lesser distances according to the state of the atmosphere. With the view of facilitating the having and the red light at a distance of ten miles, and at lesser distances according to the state of the atmosphere. With the view of facilitating the having mile may have been decided in the colour of the low light, which has literations, will be made in the colour of the low light, which has literations, will be made in the colour of the low light, which has been colour of the low light will show white from about N.E. by E. to N.E., and from N.X.E. to W. by N.; and ref from about N.E. to N.N.E..

These bearings, it will be observed, show the low light to be white from Point Lonadale to a safe berth clear of the reef; thence red to a safe berth clear of the Cornair Rock; thence white to a line passing from the lighthouse through the South Channel will be a lided in their passage through by a bearing of the light.

The change of colour from red to white is intended to warm visual approaching Points Lonadale and Nepsean Reefs to haul to the atterns of red light which will lead them clear of both reefs. The two lights in one will. as heretore, be the asiest course for vessels of beavy draught entering between the Heads.

Fixed Red and White.

This light, which has hitherto been coloured red all round, will, on and after the 10th February next, be alcored as as to show white from about E.N.E. to N.E. § E., to N.E. § N. and N.E. § N. to N. by . § W. and red from N.E. § E. to N.E. § N. and S. by W. § W. 10. S. § W.

These bearings show white from the Queenscliff jetty round to a safe berth lear of No. I black hour; thence red across the experienced are intended to obviate the difficulties thiertoe. The centre of the light will be ninety feet above high-water

These changes are intended to obviate the difficulties hitherto experienced in estimating a vessel's distance at hight from the Shortland Bluff Reek and the two channel buoys at the entrance of the West Channel. of the West Channel.

CORATE ROCK MARKS.

Alterations in the marks on Shortland's Biuff for clearing the Country Book.

The present leading marks to clear the Coratir Book are the flagstaff kept open wast of the low lighthouse.

As the latter will be recoved on the exhibitor of the new light as the latter will be recoved on the exhibitor the lighthouse kepter's quarters are to be built, it will also be removed on the 18th of February to a site close to the high lighthouse, and from that date will cease to be a mark for the Corasir Rock.

Before the removal of the old low lighthouse and flarestaff, a that cate will cose to be a mark for the Corair Rock.

Before the removal of the old low lighthouse and flagstaff, a stone obelisk, forty (40) feet high, coloured red, will be erected close to the site of the former.

The leading marks to clear the Corair Rock will then be the red obelisk and the cast end of the Queencidif Telegraph Station, a two-storied light-coloured building, close to the high light-house.

On and after the 19th Fabruary next, the following will be the directions to clear the Corair Rock:

Even the east east of the elegands station open to the westward of the red obelist, until the whole the white basons on Point Regean well out to the north world of the red between when bound inwards, and well out to the southward of the red bescon when bound inwards, and well out to the southward of the red bescon when inwards, and well out to the southward of the red beacon when bound outwards.

I Masters of vessels and others who may possess the sailing directions and chart for this port can have the particulars of this sotice inserted in their proper place in the directions, and the positions of the recently discovered rocks faid down on their charts, by sending them to this office.

The bearings are all magnetic, and are given from the ship, not from the lights.

SYDNEY HEADS.

RATHER WARM.—The Albury Banner of the 10th instant says:—Last Sunday was certainly h day to be remembered in this district. A fierce hot wind blew incessantly a perfect strocco. The thermometer in a complete shade and a comparatively cool place, at two o'clock stood at 110 degrees, while in the sun it reached 140 degrees. The greatest amount of exercise was involved in lying on verandahs or in cellars, whoever was fortunate enough to passess them, yet we will answer for it there was not a dry skin. At aight the inhabitants retired to bed, but not to rest. The wind still blew, and those who had been baked all day then boiled themselves for a change; so that the night was worse than the day, and there was not alseep in Albury,

THURSDAY, JANUARY 15, 1863.

THE interest of the American war, considered in its stratagetical and political aspect is not more impressive than the episodes to which it is continually giving rise. There seems to be pro duced upon a larger scale than ever scenes which call forth the most intense passions in their individual development. Among old nations where war has been reduced to a trade, and its practice restrained within the rigid rules of a chivalrous forbearance, we seem only to trace the collision of hostile forces, and to watch the various fortunes of a great and exciting game. The individual soldier is lost in his squadron—in his battalion, and the idea presented to the mind is a mass of uniform, and a forest of gleaming steel. But in the American war more than any other of nodern date, we see brought out continually the hostile passions of the people. Not only are there immense masses that move upon one another, and wreck whole squadrons by their mighty shock, but when the elements of which these forces are composed are scattered and brought into individual contact, all the passions of civil war breathe in the speech, glow in the countenance, and redden in the hand of the various parties, who lately were fellow-citizens and who often are brethren.

One of the worst consequences of this war is the total overthrow of all the ordinary habits which restrain a people. Their churches are stables, or are in ruins. Their worship is susstatices, or are in ruins. Anely worship is sup-pended. Their clergymen, in many instances, have left their spiritual and have assumed sub-stantially a military character. They are instru-ments in the excitement of the warlike passions, not by animating the love of glory, but by firing with indomitable resentment the parties whose cause they espouse. It is precisely in these circumstances that civil war degenerates into murder. Forced contributions are lost in general pillage. The accidents of war are liable every moment to be taken up as occasions or justification of personal revenge, and no soldier is sure when he falls into the hands of the enemy that his life will not be exacted, not for any crime committed by himself, but as a vengeance for crime committed by some of his supposed comrades or political chiefs.

To us the interest of this war is immensely acreased by this reproduction of those revolutionary passions that have only just expired—if Europe. We find under a guise somewhat different both as to speech and manners, the reappearance of the same causes, and the same effects as resulting from the same causes. The quick succession of changes in the American armies, the displacement of chiefs the sudden rising of men from the position of tapsters to the rank of generals—the sudden effacing of the manners of military men, and the inauguration of ruffianism of the cearsest and vilest kind, under the most splendid uniform or imposing designations, are curiosities in modern times, and bring back many a story of the wars at the close of the last century.

There are two events mentioned in our last news of very striking import—1st. The quarrel of two generals, and its consequences. One of these men presents himself, and is received with insult and ribaldry. He retires, and demands an explanation in the presence of a witness, no doubt with the intention of enabling them according to the laws of honour so called) to measure their swords. The ruffianism of both seems to be on a par. The man who inflicted the original injury when so challenged strikes the remonstrant. This would have seemed to account for-and, in the ommon view, have justified—a blow returned on the spot, which might have been fatal, or it would have justified an instantaneous conflict in the ordinary way of the duellist. But the offended General goes out and arms himself, and returns ots his insulter dead! Now here is a case for some consideration, but surely none for vindication or defence. But we are told that the murder (for so it must be deemed) will either not be prosecuted or not lead to a con-viction—that the man will go forth unscathed by the interference of the public voice in his favour—just as on another occasion an equally deliberate and still more frightful murder was triumphantly defended at the American bar on the ground of antecedent provocation. There is no surer sign of revolutionary times than when the popular influence and interest are sufficient to withdraw from the control claims of justice men who seem to embody the public passions even in their crimes. There is something in one aspect ludicrous—but in another most affecting—in the eagerness of the dying man to obtain the consolations of that religion whose laws he had so shamefully contemned. It shows how strong the religious feeling may be in the convictions of a mind over which it has no sway except in the excitement

The other incident which strikes us as being remarkably impressive, is the execution of those en men for the supposed murder of one. It is possible that they may have been guilty, but then they ought to have been tried and con-victed in the ordinary way. To select ten men upon the chance of their criminality, and to doom in this cold-blooded and ferocious manner to death, seems to argue a state of mind which is extremely portentious. Those ten men will require on the same calculation of vengeance 100 in atonement, and the 100 will need 1000, and the 1000 ten thousand! So the brute justice which exacts vengeance without assuring itself of the guilt of the victim, imposes upon those who patronise the persons sacrificed the dreadful task of a retaliation upon a scale as large and with cir-cumstances of terror as effective. Thus America would seem to be advancing to a period not only when her armies will rival the most numerous forces ever sent forth to the field of blood, but when her executions and sacrifice blood, but when her executions and sacrifices to the manes of the dead will equal the level of the most sanguinary epochs of history. By such rapid steps downward does a nation descend from the enjoyment of civil and religious liberty, and from a tone of moral sentiment which even in the midst of all its forms of rashness and roughness was not long ago peculiarly transfer. tender of human life.

The Franch Consult.—The good ship La Hogue, Captsin Williams will, with her accustomed precision, on Saturday morning enter upon her voyage, conveying many valued colonists from these alores. Among the rest, if we may so designate him, is the Consul of France, whose constant and pleasant intercourse with English acciety here has often almost withdrawn from recollection his foreign character and relations. No man has taken a more lively interest in the material properity of the colony, or collected information with greater assiduity, or commanicated it with more generous freedom. In what way he has performed his functions as the representative of France we are less qualified to judge than many of his countrymen, or such as have come into contact with him in his more official relations; but during the eleven years of his residence here he appears to us to have realised with more than usual perspicuity the exact medium between the duties of a triendly resident and a citizen, and to have contributed by the general spirit of his administration, to allay those animosities and distrusts which, with many much more valuable heir-looms, were transmitted to us by our immediate ancestors. We have, within a few days sail, settlements belonging to France, small indeed in their beginning, but promising from their position and capabilities. We do not know that there is any need that we should rigard them with ungenerous suspicions. Two nations so great and powerful must always be in some degree raals of each other, and points of contact are ever in danger of becoming points of attrition. But much will always depend upon those who interpret the sentiments of both nations; and though we cannot claim to be of much importance among the communities of the world, we are gravified to acknowledge that M. Sentis has not been unfaitful to the interests of his country, and toot unfriendly to the greatest ruler of modern times—the Emperor of France. Chapman's New Zealand Almanac.—The almanac published at Auckland by George T. Chapman, for the year just commenced, is one of the best productions of the kind in the Australasian colonies.
The contents embrace, besides a well arranged calenday, a large amount of useful information, together with a number of nautical and astronomical data toat of almanacs of the same character, there is much matter that has special reference to the colony, such as the no ice upon the climate of New Zealand, the coasting directory and signals, New Zealand itinerary, &c., allowing much information as to the physical condition and enixting political and social elements in the colony. Its core pleteness and general utility give the publication claims to extensive support.

That great statesman will not like to pay double duties, and the prospect of being obliged to do so may induce him to agree to some plan by which goods may be forwarded to the frontier in bond, or by which goods crossing the frontier may be registered so as to admit of an account being kept and the intercepted revenue adjusted.

THE LATE FATAL ACCIDENT AT WAVERLEY.—It will be remembered that a few weeks since, a frightful accident occurred in a well at Waverley, resulting in the death of a man named Frederick Hibberd, and that a man named Benjamin Williams, at the imminent tick of his own life, went down into the well, and was instrumental in saving the lives of three persons—the two sons of the deceased Hibberd, and another man named Holmes. The jury at the inquest on the body of Hibberd requested the coroner to represent the heroic conduct of Williams to the Government. The coroner wrote accordingly; and yesterday he received a reply from the Colonial Socre any's office, conveying the gratifying intelligence that the Government had been pleased to award to Williams the sum of £10 in recognition of his praiseworthy conduct on the occasion referred to.

BIFLE MATCH.—A rifle match of a somewhat novel and interesting character, bring a match with small bores against Enfelds, came off at the Sydney Volunter Rifle Range, vosterday afternoon. The conditions of the match were that each man should fire thirty-five shots, five at each of the ranges from 200 to 900 yards, excluding the 400, the small bores to give the Enfields twelve points each. The match resulted in favour of the Enfields; f.r although the small beres accred fifty-two points more than the Enfields, the latter won the match by means of the handicap by eight points. The average shooting was not good on either side; but this was in a great measure attributable to the intense heat of the sun and the strong wind (blowing directly across the range) which prevailed at the time. Mr. G. Phillip, en the side of the Enfields, did not shoot beyond 760 yards, as he was necessitated to leave; but the match was finished by the other gentlemen on that side shooting twe shots at each of the two remaining ranges for him. We sppend a detailed account of the shooting:—

COMMENCEMENT OF THE WINDSOR AND RICHMOND EXTENSION.

Mr. GWNNETH, the contractor for that portion of the Western railway extension lying netwern Windsor and Richmond, commenced operations yesterday by the customary ceremonial of cutting the first sod. The attendance of visitors was by no means large; this arose probably from the short notice given, or from some confusion with regard to another and more pretentious ceremony which is fixed to take place to-day on that portion of the line contracted for by Messrs. Randle and Co. But notwithstanding the paucity of visitors, the proceedings passed off with tolerable celat. A spread was provided on the ground, and at the close of the business, bumpers of champagne were drained to the speedy progress of the work, and the general dissemination of railways all over the colony.

and at the close of the business, bumpers of champagne were drained to the speedy progress of the work, and the general dissemination of railways all over the colony.

The spot selected for the ceremony forms part of the Richmond Common, and is distant about two miles from the town of Windsor. Thinker at one cleck the company proceeded by coaches, and having been subsequently joined by a few residents of Richmond, Mr. Walker, M.L.A., at the request of the contractor, at once set about to cut the first sad—a work which he performed in true navey style: the persons assembled giving three hearty cheers as the henorable member finished his labour by depositing the sod of turf outside the boundary line.

Mr. Walkers said, now that the ceremonial was over, be might be permitted to say that it was to him a matter of great pleasure to take part in the forma commencement of a railway to connect these districts with the metropolis. He was the more pleased on the occasion because he remembered well the great struggle which ensued when the Assembly were called upon to vote the money for this line. The House was concepted the whole night: they sat in fact twice round the clock, and everything that could be done was done with the view of defeating the estimate. However, the supporters of the vote held their ground, and eveniusly it was carried by a large majority—the only desentients being Mr. Dalgleish and a few others who had appresent all through. Having taken some pains to prevent members leaving, and thus having the House counted out, and having all along felt a deep hercest in the carrying out of the line, it was gratifying to him to see a start made to-day, and to have been called on to take to prominent a part in the day's proceedings. He hoped that before long they would have the line open, and in full operation for the public convenience.

Mr. G. M. Pitri also addressed the assemblage, expressing the pleasure which he felt, as a resident of the district, at the ceremony they had just winnessed. It was a memorable e

WOOLLAHRA PENNY BANK.—The first annual meeting of this institution was held on Monday evening, at the Council Chambers, Woollahra. From the report presented by the directors it appeared that on the first night of the opining of the bank, viz., on the 6th of January, 1862, there were opened 115 accounts—the sum of £12 7s. 7d. being received. During the past year the depasits amounted to £455 os. 2d., and the repayments to £143 6s; 346 accounts have been opened, and 67 closed, being 279 accounts now spen. The amount received from the office at the Congregational Schoolroom during the year in 2621 deposits was £226 8s. 1d., and from the office in Bt. Mark's Schoolroom, in 1280 deposits, £228 12s. 1d., giving an average of £4 12s. 6d. per week received at the Congregational School, and £4 13s. 4d at St. Mark's School. The total expenses for the year, including the preliminary outlay, was £15 11s. 9d; towards defraying which, eight of the directors subscribed £1 each. The balance of the pre-liminary expenses, which Mr. Tooth had very kindly advanced, has been repeal to that gentleman. After crediting the sum of £3 6s. 3d. to depositors' accounts, for interest, there is a balance to the credit of profit and loss account of 2s. 5d. [FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.]

JANUARY 12TH.—THE WHATHER.—Our district, although suffering from the long continued drought, has been more favoured than our Illawarra neighbours. But should rain be withheld much longer we shall have little to boast of—the paddocks are all burnt up, and many faumers have been obliged to savrifice their crops for the sustenance of their cattle. This having been done, the future prospect is gloomy. Butter in Sydney has realised a high price, but has been produced at a great cest. For the last two days the sky has been overcast, but no rain as yet.

MUTCAL IMPROVEMENT SOCIETY.—An interesting meeting was held on the 20th ull imo in connection with this useful society. About eighty ladios and gentlemen sat down to tea—the National Schooltoom at Croobyar being kindly lent, was tastefully decorated for the occasion—after which a public meeting was held to establish a circulating library open to all the inhubitants of the district. The chair was filled by Mr. W. Mart n, president of the society, who introduced the aubject by dwelling briefly upon the importance of reading, especially to young men; and the necessity of extending some of the benefits of the society to ladies, who might not be able to attend the lectures or discussions. Mr. W. Marks made an able speech in favour of the first resolution, affir ning the importance of the movement. Mr. Rutter, in seconding the resolution, dwelt upon the opportunities such institutions afforded ty persons of the number class to rise to usefulness and eminence. The prospects of several claims on the Victoria Lead have much improved within the last few days. Baker's claim still maintains its character. 12 and 13 is improving; and coarse gold, and a good deal of it, is being obtained in 26 and 27. Claim 36, 37, 38, and 39 is also reported as a very payable claim, there being a great depth of wash dirt, which averages from i oz. to 15 dwiz, to the load. The news from the reefs is very satisfactory. POOR RICHARD'S SAYINGS,

WITH ANNOTATIONS BY THE LORD DUNDREARY.

A FELLAR ence told me that snother fellah wrote a book before he was bo n—I mean before the first fellah was bon (of course the f llah who wrote it must have been born, else, how could he have written it!)—that is a long time ago—to pwove that a whole let of pwoverbs and things that fellahs are in the habit of quoting were all monemes.

I should wwy much like to get that book I—I it think if I could get it at one of those spherical—noglobu'ar—no, that's not the word—circle—circular—yes, that's it—circulating libwawiss (I knew it was something that went round)—I think if I could just betrow that beek from a circularing libwawy—I'd—yes, upon my word now—I'd twy snd w.ad it. A docthed good sort of book that. I'm sure. I—I always did hate pwoverbs. In the first place, they, they're so howwibly confusing—I—I always mix 'em up together—somehow, when I twy to weekomember them. And beades, if eveny follah was to wegu'ste his life by a lot of pwoverbs, what—what a beathly sort of uncomfortable life he would lead!

I remolrekt—I mean remember—when I was quite a little fellsh—in pinafores—and liked wabew wy jam, and—and a lot of howwid things for tea—there was a sort of collection of illustwated pwoverbs hanging up in our nursery at home. They belonged to our old nurse—Sarah—I think—and she had 'em fwamed and glased. "Poo—Richard's," I think she called 'em—and she used to say—poor dear—that if every fellah attraded to everything Poor Richard wote, that he'd get very wich, and l-live and dio—happy ever after. However—it—if a wewy clear to me that—he couldn't hate a fellah that pweaches what he doesn't pwactise. Of sourth, if what he sailed was twue, and he'd stuck to it—he—he'd have been called—Rich

I don't b'lieve a word of that—I'l tell yas why.

I don't b'lieve a word of that—I'l tell yas why.

To begin with "hashthy." When Sam and I were children we were all packed off to bed about eight or nine o'clock—just when a fellah ought to be dining—and had to get up at six or seven—quite the middle of the night you know—and pway old that keep us healthy? On the contwawy, we were alwass getting meathles, or whooging-cough, or vaccinathon, or some howwid complaint or other. As for mental improvement, it's not the slightest use in that way, for I twied it at Osford. When all the men of my time were sitting up weading for modewations, with wet towels round their heads, and deviaking gween tea—I—I went to bed—I did—and what was the consequence? I don't mind telling you now—but I—I was placked.

And then about "secolity," Look at my bwother Sam. He used to be out shooting sevey early—I'm sure when he, was home—and you know he's not over flush just now. That wominds me—ho—he brow owd a couple of ponies of me just before he left England—and stwange to say—he's forgor en all about it sines. But I never could make Sam out. He's such a—a doohid incentiquential follah—Sam is.

The n there was snother of "Poor Richards" pwerbs (confound him!)—

"Buy what thou hast no need of." Thethat's a rewy nice sort of mowwall malthim—that is. Why, the hat's precisely what I do do. I'm always buying semething or other that I don't want. I—I bught wather a neat thing lath these in. The hey'd only just come out then. I dedacessay energy fellah get one now—sid—s-so there's no use in having it any longer—but 'twas a vewy neat sort of thing though—weally. I'll tell you what twas like.

FROM THE ISLE OF SPRINGS.

Many years ago, when the spring time of life was fresh and beautiful around me, one of my then many friends slowly, but oh! how surely, changed from the light and merry-hearted girl, and became so sad, as crushed, so wan!
and yet in all things she was kind and genile still.

I had loved her long, as a brother might have loved an only sieter, tenderly and with reverons.

Day after day passed on, and drow her nearer and more near to that unseen world her gentle spirit loved to dwell upon.

At length she passed away, and all around her mourned her absence.

In her little desk, opened now by trembling hands, 'mid sounds of weeping, was found the following, written not long before, by one who tenderly regarded her

TO M. L. C.
Why beams thine spe less brightly now
Than once 'twas want to do?
When, though its silked fringe hung down,
The heart's pure light peop'd through;
Diffusing such a happiness,
Such quiet joy around,
Such quiet joy around,
The pure and roots found
The pure and roots found
The pure and roots found
A welcome kind and true;
Why beams it there leashrightly now
Than once 'twas wont to do!

THE FIFTH SEMI-ANNUAL CLEARING SALE.

DENISON HOUSE, George-street.—FRANCIS
GILES and COMPANY, in making the above amouncement, would remind their patrons and the public generally that these semi-annual sales do not come within the category of these spurious sellings-off too often got up for the purpose of attracting a temporary traffic, but that the reductions named in the accompanying catelogue are real, and that every item there enumerated can be had.

F. G. and CO. would again gratefully tender their thanks to their numerous customers for the large and increasing patronage or joy ed by them, and have much plessure in inviting the attention of all buyers to this HIGHLY IMPORTANT SALE of FIRST-CLASS GOODS.

In consequence of their large and unusually heavy shipments of every description of DRAPERY this season, and through the alarming depression that has universally prevailed amongst the tasunfacturing districts at home, their buyers have been enabled to make some very fortunate purchases at a large discount, which will enable their friends and supporters to realise some of the greatest bargains that have ever been offered in Sydney.

F. G. and Co. have determined, in consequence of the magnitude of their stock of summer goods still on hand, to make such considerable reductions in the price as will ensure a speedy clearance.

F. G. and Co. cancelly invite their customers to an early visit, as encouraged by the support they have received on their former Semi-annual Clearing Sales, they have resolved that this, their FIFTH, shall be justly celebrated for the great BARGAINS to be obtained.

GREAT CLEARANCE
SALE OF VALUABLE DRAPERY, Amounting to upwards of £30,000.
In consequence of my retirement from business, I have directed the whole of my stock-in-trade to be sold off.
To those families and others who have been accustomed for years to visit our establishment, I feel assured that it is needless to seay more than that I have determined on, and have made arrangements for, my return to Europe.
To the public generally it may be said that to accomplish the purpose of winding up my business in Kingstreet, I have ordered the whole of the stock-in-trade to be so reduced and marked accordingly in plain figures, that no obstacle or delay may occur as to price.

In realising the stock, and in taking leave of my business cannexions, I gratefully desire that the same bons fides shall be carried out during the stelling off of the various desiring aduring my successful career in New South Wales : further that every facility and inducement to buyers shall be given. To ensure order and punctuality, the following will be adopted:—The doors will be open at ten and close at ix o'clock daily. No deviation of price. All parcels within the city and suburban area will be delivered the following day. Slips of classified goods and achedules of departments, with a summary of prices, are obtainable for country information.

R. THOMAS CADELL has received instructions from Mr. T. B. Kermode, Dungog, to sell by public suction, at Eckford's Family Hotel, Campbell's Hill, Weet Maitland, on FRIDAY, the 16th January, 1863, at 12 o'clock,
All that valuable property known as Kermode's Ste am Flour Mill and Saw Mill, in the town of Dungog-The land, in extent about three acres, occupies a good position, and is all securely fenced.

The mill and other buildings occupy a considerable portion of the land, and about three-fourths of an acre has been formed into an excellent garden, well stocked with choics fruit trees.

The improvements are as follows:

The Stam Flour Mill, erected of brick, the walls 18 inches thick, four stories, with shingisd roof; sine of mill, 43 feet long, 33 feet wide, and about 36 feet high; all the beams, joiets, and posts of iren bark, floore of hardwood; engine, 13 horre power, new holler, engine-house, covered with galvanised iron; one pair of best 4 feet stones, and everything ready for fixing another pair: deceasing machine, dec., dec.

The mill roof spouted, carrying the water inte a tank 16 everything ready for fixing another pair: dessating machine, semutier, hoisting tackle, trucks, weighing machine, do., do.

The mill roof spouted, carrying the water inte a tank 16 feet aquare, excavated in solid rock.

The Circular Saw Mill is fixed in a shed adjoining the mill, and is driven by a shaft conhected with the engine of the ficur mill. This mill can turn out 1800 feet of timber per diem, and can cut up a log two feet in diameter.

Also exected on the land

A consfortable BRICK COTTAGB, shingled, occupied as a residence, with kitchen, &c. Also a house for a miller, and a convenient stable.

The whole of the above valuable improvements have been newly exected, and are in theorough working condition, ready to commence the incoming wheat scance.

Such an opportunity is seldom presented, as milling gonerally is known to be (in the hands of moderate capitalists) the most profitable pursuit in the colony. The present season bids fair to be highly profitable to the miller, and to meet the views of parties purchasing, immediate possession will be given.

The saw mill is a source of considerable profit, and the timber trade is steadily increasing.

The sauctioner with confidence solicits attention to the above sale, and hopes that intending purchasers will pay a visit of inspection, when they will find the advantages of this fine property have not been overrated. An active man with moderate capital can secumulate a fortune.

THE CONFEDERATE STRUGGLE AND RECOGNITION.

(From the Quarterly Review.)

There is no doubt that American proceedings would have been discussed less eagerly in England, and possibly critiched with less freedom, if they had not been made the turning point of a political controversy of our own. For a great number of years a certain party among us, great admirers of America, who even in this last extremity still worship faithfully at the old harine, have chosen to fight their English battles upon American soil. That their antagonists should follow them there is one of the inevitable exigencies of war. These who originally chose the battle-field must be responsible for the choice—not those who perforce accepted it. If Englishmen have taken almost a domestic interest in American institutions—if they have watched this, their first ordeal, with peculiar sclictfule, and have passed their comments on it with outspoken freedom,—the Federals must impute it entirely to the indirect fervour of their own particular friends.

outspoken freedom.—the Federals must impute it entirely to the indiscreet fervour of their own particular fixerds.

The impression' produced up in the majority of speciators in England has undoubtedly been that democratic institutions have failed. Probably this feeling would not have been so general or so decided it the peculiar virtue of democratic institutions had not been so attenuously vaunted. Their advocates now tell us that the American civil war is not the first civil war on record, and that the evil passions of which it is the fruit, and the evil decid of which it has been the parent, have many a presedent in monarchical and aristocratical States. To a cert in extent this is true. But this is not the tone in which they were wont to speak before the war broke out. If Mr. Bright or his friends had been formerly contain to claim for their pet democracy nothing more than that it was no werse than some of the old European monarchies, few people would have cared to question their modest panegyric. But it is the background of their extravagant adulation which throws forward into so strong a relief the calamities under which the Americans are suffering. They never ceased to assure us that democracy was a cure for war, for revolution, for extravagante, for corruption, for nepotiens, for class legislation, and, in short, for all the evils with which the States of Europea se familiar. It is too late for them, now that America is a prey to all these old, werld mainadies at once, to turn round and tell us that the model Regubic is no worse than an average despoism, or no werse than England was four hundred years ago. For years they have been proclaiming to us that it is infinitely better. For years America's small debt and scanty estimates have been the text upon which homilies to corrupt, extravagant old England have been preached. For years they have been proclaiming to us that it is infinitely better. For years America's small debt and scanty estimates have been the text upon which homilies to corrupt, extravaga which democracy had made America so gloriously free.

Semething of the same effect upon English opinion has been produced by the culoge as of American freedom with which our cars have been incessantly regaled. Long before the days of Mr. Bright they formed the favourite commonplace of democratic oracters on both sides of the Atlantic. We have placed at the head of this atticle the names of two books, published during the present year, which contain a curious record of the vannting prophed in regard to America in which the Liberal party of old and those connected with them delighted to indulge. It is instructive to compare the America of reality with the America of particular the compare the America of reality with the America of particular the feeting people of the property of the form the reflections peopled by Mr. Bewick, in 1822.

"George III. and his advisers never contemplated the mighty events they were thus bringing about—rearing and establishing the wisest and greatest of republics and nations the would ever saw. When its enormous terricry is filled with an enlightened population, and its government, the a rock, founded on the rights and liberties of man, it is byyend human comprehension to foresee the strides the nation will make towards perfection. It is likely they will cast a compessionate eye on the rest of the world grovalting under arbitrary power, banks it from the face of the earth, and level despots with the ground."

They will have to commence this compassionate operation with their own territory, and their own President a new with aber own territory, and their own President, if they are to fulfil the prephecy. Our next extract shall be from a speech of Mr. Washington Itving, delivered at New York thirty years ago:—"It has been asked, Can I be content to live in this country? Whoever aske that question must have an inadequate fisse of its blessings and delights. What accribe of the open men from the rembles and the poor men from the activation of the industry of the first accountry shows a series of the content of the rembles and the poor men from the early ide the sound of coultation—where were one speaks of the past with triump, the present with delight, the future with growing and confident anticipation."

Mr. Irring has not lived to see the insults he east upon England-doubly bitter as coming from one who had been cherished among us for years till ke I'va countrymen, equally with ourselves, regarded him as almost an Englishman—retorted by Fate upon the jeep for the sake of where applause he uttered them. The same tradition has been carried on by the prophets of a later day. It would be endless ty quete the year cyrics and predictions of Mr. Bright. So lates as May last 1c could venture to congretule the Northern States as being the freest country an the face of the earth. He, and the other sadiners of America, have always been peculiarly severe upon the measures of repression which in times of public danger English Governments have thought it necessary to adopt: and they have been doud in their admiration of the liberty, overstepping the bounds of iterese, with which Americans have till recently disputed, almost at will, the decisions of their Government, therefore, that we should view with candidation of the liberty, overstepping the bounds of iterese, with which Americans have been practiced in Irefand during critical emergencies. It is not urnatural, therefore, that we should very were also a very obvious histonec from the conduct of President Buchen of the surface of the provision of the political superior which has bee in reference to the State Legislatures indicate the feeling that has prevailed in reference to all political offices:

"Nothing has struck me so much in America as the fact that these State Legislatures are puny powers..... It is besired that their insignificance is a sign of the well-being of the people—that the smallness of the power necessary for the people—that the smallness of the power necessary for the received and how well it works. "It is better to have little Governors than great Governors," an American once said to use. "It is our glory that we know how to live without having great must to rule over us." That glory, if it ever were a glory, has come to an end it occurs to use that all these troubles have come upon the Matrix because they have not put high men in high places. The less of laws and the less of control the better, providing a geople can go right with few laws and with little control. One may say that no laws and no control would be best of all, provided that none were needed. But this is not exactly the position of the American people. The two professions of law-making and of government have become unfashicable, low in estimation, and of no repute in the States. The municipal powers of the cities have not fallen into the hands of the leading men. The word political has come to bear the meaning of political adventurer, and almost of political blackleg. If A calls Ba politician, A futured to villify B by so calling him."

This is the real rot of the disease. It affects politicians of all degrees, whether they aim at municipal, State, or Federal offices; and it shows itself with especial virulence in the elections for the Preidency itself. Mr. Trolope throws out a suggestion that perhaps a higher rate of pay might draw bester men. We doubt whether a higher rate of pay would be less attractive to the "political blackleg," or would compensate to respectable persons for the disease much deeper—as deep as the democracy itself. It could not have been avoided without an entire change of instituti

The North have committed many minor errors and exergy from their adjectives to their deeds. But the cardinal cause of their calamities lies in the gree political fallacy of their institutions. They are reaping a hurvest that was sown as far back as the time of Jefferron. They are without any leaders worth of the name, because, in deference to a dreamer theory, their natural leaders have been deposed.
